Nesso Nessino

Giancarlo Mattioli &
Gruppo Architetti Urbanisti Città Nuova
↪ 1965

Born in 1933, Italian designer Giancarlo Mattioli's Nesso lamp displayed a ground breaking use of injection-molded plastic as a contemporary material for object production. An "icon" of design, the lamp is the permanent collections of The Metropolitan Museum of Art and The Museum of Modern Art.

The Urban Architects Group "Città Nuova" was a union of young professionals established in the early 1960s in Bologna, Italy who decided to engage in architecture – and urban design – moving consciously away from the figure of the architect seen as an individual creator in order to listen to local communities and to work together.

↗ Identity

Designed by Giancarlo Mattioli & Gruppo Architetti Urbanisti Città Nuova in the glamorous 60's era, Nesso stuns a pivotal part of the Artemide identity. A dash of color and a design inspired from nature, Nesso stems from the visionary identity of Artemide.

↗ Iconic

An iconic piece having staged its presence in various landmarks such as museums and television series, Nesso is considered a valuable piece of art.

↗ Statement

Nesso's iconic curves wind into a true collectible, an expressive statement piece of internationally acclaimed caliber and fame.
